THE UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

SENATE POLICY: J-#136 – DRAFT

Number & Title

J-136: Academic Accommodation for Students’ Religious Observances and for Cultural Observances for First Nations, Métis, and Inuit Students

Effective Date:

February 2020 (anticipated)

Approval Date:

February 2020 (anticipated)

Review Date:

This policy shall be reviewed five (5) years after approval and thereafter as deemed necessary by the responsible committee.

Responsible Committee:

Academic Policy Committees

Authority:

University Act, S. 37(1)

“...to consider, approve and recommend to the board the revision of courses of study, instruction and education in all faculties and departments of the university;

(g) to provide for courses of study in any place in British Columbia and to encourage and develop extension and correspondence programs;

(h) to provide for and to grant degrees, including honorary degrees, diplomas and certificates of proficiency, except in theology;...
(n) to provide for the preparation and publication of a university calendar;

Purpose and Goals:

The University of British Columbia values respect for the diversity of people within its community and the religious and cultural traditions that guide their individual lives. Moreover, as set out in the Calls to Action resulting from the Truth and Reconciliation Committee, we recognize and respect Indigenous peoples’ right to self-determination in spiritual matters, including the right to practise, develop, and teach their own spiritual and religious traditions, customs, and ceremonies.

In keeping with these principles and values this policy is designed to provide reasonable and appropriate accommodation for students who are absent from classes (including lectures, discussions, tutorials, laboratories, clinical placements, etc.) and scheduled examinations in order to participate in observances of religious significance or observances of cultural importance to First Nations, Métis, and Inuit students.

Applicability:

This policy is applicable to all students at either campus of the University.

Exclusions:

Students in the classifications of Visiting International Research Students and Residents (medical, dental, pharmacy) are not included in this policy. Persons in these categories who face unexpected circumstances should contact their immediate supervisor to make suitable arrangements.

Convocation ceremonies are excluded from this policy.

Definitions:

For the purposes of this policy and in all other policies in which they are not otherwise defined:

- First Nations, Métis, and Inuit students are those students who self-identify as such.

Policy:

1) The University provides reasonable and appropriate accommodation for a student who must be absent from classes (including lectures, discussions, tutorials, laboratories, clinical placements, etc.) and scheduled examinations in order to participate in observances of religious significance in keeping with the practices of the students own sincerely held religious beliefs.

2) The University provides reasonable and appropriate accommodation for students who are absent from classes (including lectures, discussions, tutorials, laboratories, clinical placements, etc.) and scheduled examinations in order to participate in observances of spiritual and/or cultural importance to First Nations, Métis, and Inuit students.

3) Documentation from faith or community leaders is not required to support requests for accommodation.

4) The University accepts that sincerely held beliefs by members of the same group may lead to different observance practices.

5) Students are expected to incorporate the deadlines for submission of course work such as essays, reports, and homework/problem sets into their schedules without requesting accommodation.

6) Students should first explore options for fulfilling their religious or cultural obligations that will avoid a conflict with a class or exam. If alternatives are not available, then students should seek accommodation.

7) Observance may restrict participation in course activities and may require:
   a) absence from class in which work is produced for a grade;
   b) absence from scheduled exams;
   c) absence from a scheduled placement;
   d) following specific dress codes;
   e) temporary absence from class for daily prayers, fasting or breaking a fast during class; or,
   f) missing other required activities identified in the course syllabus.

8) Accommodations may include, but are not limited to, the following:
   a) setting an alternative date for in-term or final examinations or other in-class assessments that are missed;
   b) providing an alternative assignment for satisfying the course requirement; and,
   c) re-calculating the evaluation scheme to eliminate the component that has been missed.
9) No accommodation will be granted that jeopardizes the academic integrity of the curriculum, the academic standards of courses and programs, or the safety of the student or others.

10) Some course activities such as group presentations and laboratories may be impossible to reschedule and so accommodation may require alternative means of demonstrating that the learning outcomes have been achieved.

11) It is the responsibility of the student to make the request for accommodation to their instructor/Coordinator/Program advisor as appropriate well in advance. Failure to make a timely request may result in a denial of the request.

12) The instructor/Coordinator/Program advisor will process requests expeditiously to avoid an academic disadvantage to the student.

13) If a course instructor and a student are unable to agree on the form of accommodation, the request will be referred to the academic head of the unit offering the course or program to determine the appropriate form of accommodation.

Calendar Statement:
As above.

Consultations
The following groups will be consulted during the development of this policy:

Aboriginal Programs and Services, Okanagan Campus, AMS; UBCSUO; Academic Advisors; Centre for Accessibility; Chaplains, CTLT; Deans, Directors and Academic Heads; Disability Resource Centre; Enrolment Services; Equity and Inclusion; First Nations House of Learning; GSS; UBC Community via Senate Website and UBC Today newsletter, VP Students’ Office and AVP Students’ Office; Office of the Ombudsperson; Office of University Counsel; Offices of the Provosts on either campus.

History:
This is the first version of this policy. Prior to this policy having been approved, the related provisions in this policy were covered under Board of Governors Policy #65 – Religious Holidays. In a review of the Board policy undertaken in 2018, it was determined that the Senate is the appropriate authority for dealing with academic accommodations for students’ religious holidays.

Related Policies:

Withdrawal

Appendix:

There is no appendix to this policy.

Procedures:

1) As a reference to assist with understanding where dates of religious significance fall an Interfaith Calendar is available. It is acknowledged that this list may be incomplete.

2) In determining the form of accommodation, instructors should be aware that the act of writing a test or essay in class or in formal exam conditions is a valuable learning experience and so should ensure that if the missed assessment is not rescheduled, students are able to see the assessment questions and learn from the instructor the kinds of answers that were expected.

3) Requests for accommodation must be made in person or in writing to the course instructor or, in multi-section courses, to the course coordinator. In cases where a satisfactory arrangement between the student and course instructor/coordinator cannot be made, or if the student is uncomfortable approaching the instructor to request accommodation, the student should contact the advising office of their home Faculty or School or the Equity & Inclusion office for assistance in communicating with the course instructor or the academic head of the unit offering the course.

4) Requests for accommodation for examinations scheduled in a formal examination period should be made well in advance and normally no later than 14 days prior to the start of the examination period. Requests for accommodation during the term should be made well in advance and normally no later than 14 days prior to the date when the observance will affect course work. If the observance occurs within 14 days of the start of a term, the student shall contact the course instructor/coordinator at the earliest opportunity to request accommodation.

5) In some credit courses, such as some practica and field-work courses, there may be steps required for approval and authorities involved in requests for accommodation in addition to those described in this policy.
